At the 2005 Regional Job Fairs, over 50 businesses participated, representing a wide range of job opportunities in manufacturing, construction, welding, social services, entertainment, health, military, financial services, and many more. Comments from businesses included "I hired on the spot", "exposure was valuable", "good candidates", "as long as I was able to get one possible worker/lead/prospect, it was worth it", and "I was able to network with other employers and service providers". The events were well organized and provided an opportunity to offer information and job opportunities to interested candidates.
